

Community Monitoring of Marine Invasive Species Workshop

Tuesday April 12, 2011 2:00–5:00 p.m.

Location: Kodiak National Wildlife Refuge Visitor Center
402 Center Ave., Kodiak

What are the workshop objectives?

Participants will :

- get a brief history of monitoring for Marine Invasive Species in Alaska
- learn how to Identify current species of concern in Alaska
- learn through demonstration the techniques currently being used by State, Smithsonian Environmental Research Center (SERC) and Federal Agencies in monitoring for marine invasive species.
- Learn how to fill out data forms and techniques used for data collection

Who should attend:

Those interested in getting involved in marine invasive species monitoring, individuals currently engaged in monitoring, educators interested in incorporating this type of opportunity into their program, individuals that have an interest in marine invasive species in Alaska.

Agenda

2:00 – 2:30 History and current state of Alaskan monitoring

2:30 --3:00 Identification of species of concern

3:00 – 3:15 Break

3:15 – 4:00 Demonstration of monitoring and reporting techniques

4:00- 4:45 Review current Kodiak monitoring program, plates , traps.

4:45-5:00 Wrap up , program development

For more information contact Gary Freitag, 907 617 8990, Gary.Freitag@alaska.edu