Alutiiq Museum
Archaeofaunal Collection Tour

Saturday 9 April 2011  10:00-noon
Alutiiq Museum, 215 Mission Rd, Kodiak

Come visit the Alutiiq Museum and tour their archaeological collections with Patrick Saltonstall and Mike Etnier. Dozens of well-preserved archaeofaunal collections from the Kodiak Archipelago are curated at the Alutiiq Museum, and these collections are being tapped for the distributional, chemical, and molecular data archived within them.

Some species, like sperm whales and killer whales, are represented by only a few specimens in the archaeofaunal collections, while others, such as cod, salmon, sea lions, and harbor seals are nearly ubiquitous.

Come see what the museum collections have to offer!

For more information, contact Patrick Saltonstall @ 486-7004, x 23